

Intro Students Learned About Themselves Transcript

When we asked students about how these clubs helped them to learn about themselves, they talked about these clubs as a way to break down stereotypes that they perhaps formed in their homes. And how it opened them up to meeting new people and brought together people and challenged any kinds of misunderstandings.