

Chapter 6. Parents

First Narrative: When family moves to different countries, children and their family suffer many problems for example children will lose their privacy because parents can't afford to buy a big house or apartment to rent because of financial problems. In order to solve that problem, they can go to library, go to park, or somewhere else where they can get alone time. And the other example, children have trouble with the behaviour in the family. In school the teacher tell to be loud and speak up, and in house you get to be quiet and think about other people and it will get difficult for children to manage it. In order to solve that problem you can tell your parents that its really hard to manage it, and if you are really afraid of them, just write a letter, and it will explain them. If you're really afraid of them, tell your teacher, and your teacher will talk for you. That will solve your problem, and thank you for listening to me.

Second Narrative: Some problems students have with their parents. Often one parent stay with the children, the other comes to Canada. Sometimes they are separated for many years. Try to not fight with your parent. Understand that they are make mistakes, because you think you are right, but they think they are defending you. This is good for you. Try understand them and be patient. But they have to understand you older now. You can do cool stuff like the Canadians do. Ask your parents to talk to your teacher or counsellor about the Canadian culture. Also, talk to your counsellor or teacher to make you feel better. Its not inside of you. Slowly talk to them as a friend. Write a letter if you can't talk.
