

Just the whole student leadership, student voice part of things. You know, within the school there's a super council that I'm working with, and within the Board there's a super council that I'm working with, and this is getting what students think at the ground roots level and getting that up to the Board level. And you know, we mentor these students and help them with the organization of you know, the monthly meetings and the different areas of the Board and provide focus questions coming from the Board for them to discuss with the students in their area. They gather that information and bring it back to executive student council. The trustees take that information and report it to the Board trustees in their monthly meetings so that there is a mechanism for that student voice to make its way into the monthly Board meetings at the TDSB.
