

Students Learned About Themselves Clip 3 Transcript

Clubs are probably one of the best things that ever happened in school. I think it's made me who I am. Without clubs I probably wouldn't be as interested and provoked to do something. I would have known about issues, but I wouldn't have known what I could do to make things different, make things work. And it's not only human rights clubs, but I feel like clubs have made me more active, physically more active. And more, they've helped me with school work, they've helped me with finding my place in the world kind of. It sounds weird, but it kind of helped me, it also helped me set my morals because I've learned about what I'm supposed to look forward to and what I'm supposed to work towards and I've learnt a lot about myself as well.
