

Students Learned About Themselves Clip 4 Transcript

Speaker 1:

Yes it has, it helped me learn about other cultures and therefore I gained friends through ESL Ambassador club.

Speaker 2:

For me, joining the ESL Ambassador club and the cultural and religious clubs in general helped me a lot, especially for my language, which is a really big thing when you try to communicate with other people and share things with them. You can share your culture with them and they can share their culture with you, and it really helps your confidence and it opens you up to many people, and opens you in a way that you can use it as a positive thing. Just to go out there and share your culture and be proud of it, and you can make connections through friendships. I do think that it will impact me a lot since now that I'm aware of other cultures out there, I've been educated by talking to my friends from different cultures. I would say it had a positive impact and as I continue learning about their different cultures it will help me more in understanding things that they do in their culture.

Speaker 3:

It's like a flower in the spring. First you're closed, but as time goes by you're blossoming, you're opening up. It's just like you, you're silent at first and then you talk a lot more to them and you begin to share your culture, religion to them and what could hurt your feelings. And then you really open up and it changes a lot of your appearance and your own understanding.

Speaker 4:

It has impacted my future because I learn about myself and I really want to help people, especially newcomers to Canada and people in other countries that are struggling. I try to help others in any way I can.
